"Well?" Alex strutted out into the living room looking like one of Henry's teenage dreams. He was dressed as Han Solo, wearing sinfully tight blue trousers, a tight black shirt, a sexy brown leather jacket, a holster that hung low on his hips, and black boots that went up to his knees. "What are you wearing?" Henry's spoke before his brain caught up. He gasped and could not peel his eyes off Alex's 'holster'. "Han Solo cosplay." Alex rolled his eyes and clutched his hands together like a gun. "You know, for Star Wars day. Thought the kids would get a kick out of it. I might wear it this weekend too." Alex ran his fingers through his messy curls. "You think my hair's okay?" Henry started to hum God Save the Queen to calm himself down. It was too much to process all at once. "This weekend?" He echoed, his voice broke, and he knew he was beyond screwed. "Yeah, you know, for Free Comic Book Day. Lots of people will dress up."
"Free comic book day?" Apparently, he had forgotten English.
"Are you okay there, sweetheart?" Alex smirked, he knew the effect his outfit was having on Henry.
